Salary sacrifice

West State Super

What is salary sacrifice?

You can choose to give up or ‘sacrifice’ part of your before-tax salary and have it paid into your West State Super account instead. This is generally a tax-effective way to grow your super.

To start salary sacrifice contributions, you need to set up a contractual agreement with your employer, called a salary sacrifice arrangement. Most of the time, salary sacrificing doesn’t affect the amount your employer contributes to your account.

In some cases, employer Superannuation Guarantee (SG) contributions could be calculated on your reduced salary and your salary sacrificed amount may count towards your employer’s SG obligations. This depends on the details of your salary sacrifice arrangement, so make sure you understand the terms of your arrangement.

You can only salary sacrifice to your West State Super account if you are currently employed in the WA public sector.

The benefits of salary sacrifice

Here are some reasons you might decide to salary sacrifice:

• You’ll pay less income tax – your taxable income is reduced by the amount you salary sacrifice, which means you could pay less income tax

• There could be other tax benefits – super is generally taxed at what’s known as a concessional rate of 15%. If you compare this to your marginal tax rate, your total benefit (i.e. net income plus super) could increase through salary sacrificing. Of course, this tax benefit depends on your personal circumstances

• Salary sacrifice is flexible – you should be able to start, stop or change your salary sacrifice contribution amount as your situation changes

• It’s cost-effective – you can generally salary sacrifice contributions at no cost into your GESB account through your employer, if you are a WA public sector employee

West State Super’s unique features

West State Super is a constitutionally-protected, untaxed fund. These unique features may provide extra benefits when you make salary sacrifice contributions.

Salary sacrifice contributions are not taxed upfront

Having an untaxed fund means you only pay tax when you withdraw your benefit or roll your super into a taxed fund or retirement income stream.

With an untaxed fund, 100% of your contributions are invested in your chosen plan, instead of only 85% if you had a taxed fund. You receive investment returns on the full amount of your contributions, which means you might see a slightly higher benefit over time as a result.

Salary sacrifice contributions are not capped for West State Super members

While you’re working for the WA public sector, you can sacrifice up to 100% of your salary into your West State Super account. This can help you to build your retirement savings, especially in the lead up to retirement.

Concessional contributions made to West State Super count towards your concessional contributions cap, but are not capped within West State Super. That is, the annual cap does not limit the amount of concessional contributions that you can make to a constitutionally protected fund, however, as such contributions to a constitutionally protected fund count towards your annual cap, they do limit your ability to make further concessional contributions to other non-constitutionally protected super funds. For example, if you make $25,000 in concessional contributions to West State Super (including your employer contributions) you wouldn’t be able to make any further concessional contributions to a taxed scheme in that financial year.

With West State Super, an untaxed plan cap per super fund (indexed annually) applies to the untaxed element of your benefit. This is the amount that can be paid as a lump sum or rolled over to a taxed fund and still be subject to concessional tax treatment when you access your money. The untaxed plan cap for the 2019/20 financial year is $1.515 million per super fund.

The cost of salary sacrifice

You can usually salary sacrifice directly to your West State Super account at no cost through your employer’s payroll system, if this is in line with your employer’s agreement.

If your salary sacrifice is arranged through a third party salary packaging provider, they may charge a fee.

1 West State Super is an untaxed scheme. Tax is generally only payable when you access your benefit, or when you roll over to a taxed scheme or retirement income stream. For more information, read the ‘Tax and super’ brochure available at gesb.wa.gov.au/brochures.

2 If you are a high income earner whose income and relevant concessional taxed contributions exceed $250,000 then you may be liable for Division 293 tax. For more information see the ‘Tax and super’ brochure available at gesb.wa.gov.au/brochures.
How to arrange your salary sacrifice

You should first check with your employer to confirm what arrangements they have for salary sacrificing to your super. They should be able to arrange for your super contributions to be deducted from your before-tax salary. You can also use our ‘Payroll deduction’ form, available at gesb.wa.gov.au/forms. This form will need to be completed and given to your employer’s payroll department.

If you would like to go through a salary packaging provider, simply contact them for help with setting up your salary sacrifice arrangement.

Finding the right advice

There are a number of factors to take into account when deciding whether to start salary sacrifice contributions. You might want to seek advice for your personal circumstances from a qualified financial adviser. For more information about your advice options, see the ‘Help and advice’ section of our website at gesb.wa.gov.au.

Meet Amanda

Here’s an example of how salary sacrifice and its tax benefits work. Amanda’s annual salary is $70,000. She makes a personal contribution of $5,200 a year ($100 a week) to her West State Super account.

Comparing super contributions with and without salary sacrifice

The table below shows the differences between contributions made from Amanda’s after-tax income (without salary sacrifice) and contributions made from her before-tax income (with salary sacrifice).

Please note: the figures above are for the 2019/20 financial year.

After arranging salary sacrifice contributions with her employer:

- Amanda has contributed $5,200 to her super without reducing her after-tax income by the same amount. This is because she has only paid income tax on $64,800 instead of $70,000
- Over the year, Amanda’s tax has reduced by $1,822 ($14,617 minus $12,795), and her take-home pay has only reduced by $3,378 ($55,383 minus $52,005)
- Amanda has reduced her income tax by about $35 a week ($1,822 divided by 52 weeks) with her $100 a week contribution to super. At the same time, her take-home pay has only reduced by about $65 a week ($3,378 divide by 52 weeks)
- Amanda has increased her total benefit (net income plus super) by $1,822 ($57,205 minus $55,383)

Amanda’s salary sacrifice contributions are not taxed at the time they are made to her West State Super account<sup>6</sup>, so the full amount of her contributions are invested in her account. Tax will only need to be paid on her untaxed benefit when it is paid to her, or rolled over to a taxed fund or retirement income stream.

<sup>4</sup> Includes low income tax offset of $28 and low and middle income tax offset of $1,080 (total tax offset $1,108).
<sup>5</sup> West State Super is an untaxed fund and generally no contributions tax is applied. Instead, there is a lifetime limit (referred to as an untaxed plan cap) of $1,515 million per super fund for the 2019/20 financial year (indexed annually) which applies to the untaxed benefit. This is the amount of taxable component - untaxed element that can be paid or rolled over to a taxed fund and still be subject to concessional tax treatment.
<sup>6</sup> If you are a high income earner whose income and relevant concessionally taxed contributions exceed $250,000 then you may be liable for Division 293 tax. For more information see the ‘Tax and super’ brochure available at gesb.wa.gov.au/brochures.
Important things you need to know

Before you make a decision, it’s important to understand:

- Once you add money to super, you generally can’t access it until you meet what’s known as a condition of release, e.g. when you retire
- West State Super is an untaxed fund, so tax is generally only payable when you access your benefit, or when you roll over to a taxed scheme or retirement income stream. It’s important to find out how salary sacrifice will affect the amount of tax on your benefit. For more information, read the ‘Tax and super’ brochure available at gesb.wa.gov.au/brochures
- Although the concessional contributions cap doesn’t apply to West State Super, any concessional contributions you make to West State Super count towards your cap for the purposes of making additional concessional contributions to a taxed super scheme. For example, if your cap is $25,000 and you make $15,000 in concessional contributions to West State Super, you would be able to make $10,000 in concessional contributions to a taxed scheme and remain within the cap. If you make $25,000 in concessional contributions to West State Super, then you would not be able to make any further concessional contributions to a taxed scheme and remain within the cap. For more information, read the ‘Contributing to your super’ brochure available at gesb.wa.gov.au/brochures
- Division 293 contributions tax for very high income earners applies to concessional (before-tax) contributions, including those made to tax-exempt constitutionally protected funds, like West State Super. For more information, read the ‘Tax and super’ brochure available at gesb.wa.gov.au/brochures
- Salary sacrifice is a type of contribution you make before tax. When you make after-tax contributions, tax has already been paid so no further tax applies to these contributions
- In accordance with WA State Government policy, if you want to salary sacrifice more than 50% of your salary, you will need to obtain financial advice before entering into a salary sacrifice arrangement
- Salary sacrifice may not be the best option for you, should your taxable income fall under the tax-free threshold. Consider the tax rates applicable to your annual taxable income
- The amount you salary sacrifice will be reported by your employer on your PAYG payment summary. This amount could affect whether you’re eligible for:
  - The spouse super contributions tax offset
  - A deduction for personal super contributions (deductions cannot be claimed for personal super contributions made to an untaxed fund, such as West State Super)
  - All dependent tax offsets
  - Centrelink and Child Support Agency benefits (e.g. family tax benefit, child care benefit)
