You may be able to claim a tax deduction for personal concessional contributions you have made to your super account with us.

Note for West State Super members

Under Australian Government rules, members are not eligible to claim a tax deduction for personal contributions made after 30 June 2017 to a West State Super account.

Therefore, this form is for GESB Super members' use only.

How to claim or vary a tax deduction

Step 1 Complete the attached form

The 'Notice of intent to claim or vary a tax deduction 2024/25' form tells us the super account you nominate and the amount of the tax deduction you want to claim or vary.

Important: you can only vary a previous valid notice of intent to reduce (including to nil) the amount you are claiming as a personal deduction. You cannot revoke or withdraw the notice. If you want to increase the amount you are claiming as a deduction, you will need to lodge a second notice specifying the additional amount you want to claim.

Step 2 Receive confirmation from us

Once we have received your notice, we will send you an acknowledgement letter to confirm the amount you want to claim or vary. Keep this letter with your other important super and tax documents.

Step 3 Submit your tax return

When it's time to submit your tax return, you will need to state the amount you are claiming in the supplementary section of your tax return.

How do you know if you are eligible?

Tax law requires contributions to be made to a complying super fund or Retirement Savings Account (RSA).

To be eligible to claim a deduction, you must meet all of these conditions:

- You must write to your fund or RSA provider and advise them of the amount you intend to claim as a deduction
- You must send the form to your fund before you submit your tax return, or before the end of the following financial year, whichever is earlier

- Your fund or RSA provider must send a written acknowledgment letter and agree in writing to the amount intended to be claimed as a deduction
- You must be a member of the fund at the time you lodge the notice with us and the fund still holds the contribution. Please note that if you transfer money between schemes, you may no longer be eligible to claim a deduction. For example, if you make a contribution to your GESB Super account, you must lodge your notice with us before transferring to our Retirement Income Pension
- You must not have applied to split the contribution for which you intend to claim a deduction
- If you are aged 67 to 74, you must meet the work test (i.e. you worked 40 hours within a consecutive 30-day period in the income year in which you made the contribution), or, have a work test exemption (have met the work test in the previous financial year, have a total superannuation balance of less than $300,000 at the end of the previous financial year, and not previously relied upon the work test exemption to make contributions) and you must not have claimed a deduction for contributions that were made more than 28 days after the end of the month in which you turned 75. Personal super contributions cannot otherwise be made for persons aged 75 years or older
- If you were under 18 at the end of the income year in which you made the contribution, you must earn some income as an employee or business operator during the year that you claim the deduction
- You cannot claim a deduction for any contribution made using the downsizing measures, any amounts you choose to have treated as a COVID-19 re-contribution, or any re-contribution you make to avoid paying First Home Super Saver tax<sup>1</sup>
- You cannot claim a deduction for any contribution previously included in an earlier valid notice

Note: personal contributions for which you claim a personal tax deduction are not eligible for the Australian Government Super Co-contribution.

<sup>1</sup> Generally, you are liable to pay First Home Super Saver tax if you withdraw money from your superannuation account using the First Home Super Saver scheme but do not use it to buy or build a home or contribute it back into superannuation within 12 months of the date on which it was released.

Claiming a deduction after a partial roll over or withdrawal

Special rules apply if you made a withdrawal or rolled over part of your super to another fund during the year. A deduction notice may not be given for the entire contribution if you have withdrawn or rolled over a part of your super benefit.

Visit the Australian Tax Office (ATO) website at ato.gov.au for more information or contact your Member Services Centre on 13 43 72.

Important information about your concessional contributions cap

Personal contributions made to your GESB Super account for which you claim a personal tax deduction will count towards your concessional contributions cap.

For more information, see the 'Tax and super' brochure available at gesb.wa.gov.au/brochures.

The general concessional contribution cap from 1 July 2024 is $30,000<sup>2</sup>.

Previous concessional contribution caps:

- $25,000 for each year from 1 July 2017 to 30 June 2021
- $27,500 for each year from 1 July 2021 to 30 June 2024

Carry forward concessional contributions

From 1 July 2019, the carry forward rules allow you to make extra concessional contributions above the general concessional contributions cap without having to pay extra tax. If you have a total super balance of less than $500,000 on 30 June of the previous financial year, you can carry forward unused concessional contributions cap amounts from previous financial years, starting 1 July 2018. Amounts carried forward that have not been used after five years will expire.

This means you will be allowed to contribute more than the general concessional contributions cap, and make additional concessional contributions for any unused amounts.

There may be tax implications if you exceed your concessional contributions cap.

If you exceed your concessional contributions cap, you will receive a determination from the ATO, setting out your options.

For more information, read the 'Contributing to your super' and 'Tax and super' brochures available at gesb.wa.gov.au/brochures.

Warning: Division 293 tax for high income earners

The concessional tax treatment of certain super contributions is reduced for high income earners. If an individual's adjusted taxable income plus low tax contributions exceed the high income threshold of $250,000, an additional 15% tax is paid on the value of those concessional contributions that exceed the $250,000 threshold. For the avoidance of doubt, Division 293 tax does not apply to excess concessional contributions. There are special rules for defined benefit interests, constitutionally-protected State higher level office holders, certain Commonwealth justices and temporary residents who depart Australia.

For more information, read the 'Tax and super' brochure available at gesb.wa.gov.au/brochures.

More information

We recommend that you seek professional financial advice or tax advice if you wish to claim a deduction for your super contributions. This is a complex area and it is important to confirm your eligibility, particularly if there are any other tax considerations that apply.

If you have any questions, please contact your Member Services Centre on 13 43 72 or visit gesb.wa.gov.au for more information.
